A long time ago these two guys, Jack and Kyle were walking down a long and lonely road. As they were walking, there shined a shiny Demon in the middle of the road. So he said, "Pay my rent or I'll eat your souls!" Suddenly, they grab their axes and say, "You do not fear us" and Whip-crack went his whippet tail, the beast was done waiting. They looked at each other and said,....."Okay." They bravely faced the demon, and fought him in an epic battle of epicness. So they came up with a plan to bring forth the all powerful and mighty Lee and have him defeat the demon.

So Kyle charged at the Demon trying to buy Jack some time, the battle between Kyle and the Demon has begun. Kyle's axes collides with the demons horns creating lightning, striking the ground and soaring up into the clouds. Kyle is able to get the Demon close enough to the edge of the cliff and pushes him off the edge. However the demon is able to floats back up. As the Demon rises from the abyss, the ground shakes with fear.

Jack is finally able to bring forth Lee right before Kyle has to fight the Demon again. Kyle was exhausted, so Lee takes over for him. Lee is an all powerful war god, who comes to his allies when called apon. He wears a toga, and wields a sabre of light. Lee thrusts his sabre towards the Demon, and grazes his shoulder. The Demon shrieks with pain, his flesh oozing from his shoulder. Lee then changes his sabre into a bow, with an endless stock of arrows.

He bombards the Demon with a thousand arrows, striking him with fierce brutality. While the Demon is recovering, Lee quickly changes the bow into a sword and charges the Demon. Just before Lee collides with him, the Demon jumps out of the way, but still cuts his tail. His black blood hits the ground burning like acid, burning so deep that it creates canyons. Jack and Kyle charge the Demon from both sides, slicing his head and his legs both off. Suddenly a thousand spirits pour from his body. Being quite small many of them crawl into the ground like worms.
