

This exercise is designed to get you up and moving in the class in order to meet people and get to know them. If you see a person alone, introduce yourself and try to find common ground. Use each person's name only once, then move on.

Find and write the first and last name of

1. _____ a person who defines success as you do. Explain here how the two of you define success.

2. _____ a person whose belief about success is very different from yours. Paraphrase his/her belief here before you move on:

3. _____ a person who believes that helping others is more important than promoting his/her own interests. Explain here what he/she does now to help others, and/or what he/she would like to do in the future:

4. _____ a person who believes that people who are unsuccessful are responsible for their failure. Ask for an example (true or hypothetical) of such a person and write it here:

5. _____ a person who believes that success is based on luck. Give an example of someone whom he or she believes has become successful through luck, and explain how this person has been lucky:

6. _____ a person who believes that anyone who works hard can become successful. Ask for an example of someone who has achieved success through hard work and write below:

7. _____ a person who shares your reaction to the Fortune magazine advertisement. Summarize your shared reaction:
